Water Engagement Initiative (WEI)
WEI is an inclusive, interest-based public engagement process to improve water management in the Nechako River. WEI is led by independent facilitators and supported by technical specialists to address interests and issues related to Rio Tinto’s operations spanning the Nechako Reservoir, Skins-Cheslatta-Murray Lake System and the Nechako River.

Together, we are identifying changes to our operations that better reflect a broad range of community interests.

Kitimat Public Advisory Committee (KPAC)
Rio Tinto BC Works hosts KPAC meetings quarterly and it is comprised of more than 20 community organizations, including District of Kitimat, Haisla Nation, Unifor 2301, Kitimat Chamber of Commerce and Ministry of Environment. KPAC serves as a source of information on our operations, and conversely, ensures that community voices are heard and considered in our decision making on the environmental performance of the smelter. This group has been meeting for 27 years.
